The UMTECH-philosophy:

Events of each kind belong to our life just like the conviction that the environment may not suffer from it.

Construction projects have their antagonists, because interferences in the ecological environment by construction works are often profound.

For protecting the soil it is necessary to achieve several objectives:

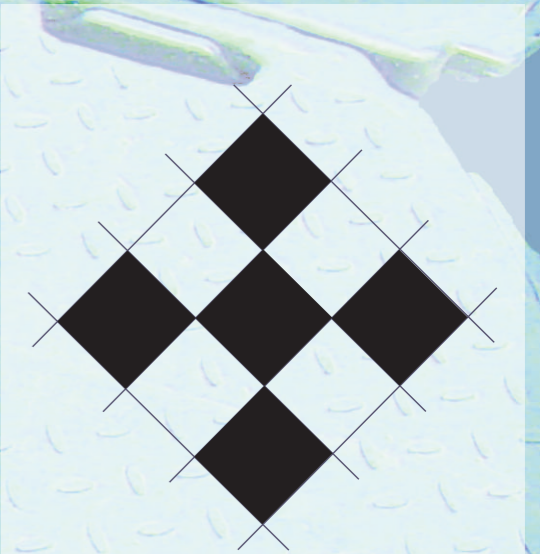

- First of all the natural cover must be preserved and not removed;
- Furthermore the soil may not be polluted;
- Also the loads must be distributed dynamically on a maximum area;
- And waiting time must be reduced to a minimum;
- Each solution must be low-priced. Only in such a way environmental protection can become an economic alternative.
